Over there they don't put in the leg, hip or cheek locks, what we call the scrap, but they take the best fleece and tie it together with twine that would cost us forty cents per pound. In this country the farmers use a soft twine for wrapuing. It gets into the fine wool and cannot be removed without the use of chemicals. It is this feature of the business that should be eliminated, as it spoils the fleece to some extent for the manufacturers."

WOOL BOUND TO GO UP.

Mr. McDowell Expliins How the Price

Dropped Under the Tariff.

John McDowell, president of the State

Board of Agriculture, passed through

Board of Agriculture, passed through Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon on his way home to Washington from Clarion, where he attended a meeting of the board. Mr. McDowell is also ex-president of the State Wool Growers' Association, and divides honors with Judge Lawrence and David Harpster, of Ohio, for having the wool tariff advanced. When asked yesterday how he accounted for the law prices of wool he resided.

When asked yesterday how he accounted for the low prices of wool he replied:

"I know Major McKinley has been asked the question by farmers many times on the stump this fall. I remained at Washington last winter for six weeks looking after the interests of the wool growers. We conferred with the manufacturers for six days before we reached a conclusion. I went thero determined to insist upon specific duttes, but finally compromised on an advalorem basis with thirty-two cents on the third grade and fifty on the second. Now I am coming to the point. The opposition of the foreign makers and growers to the increase in tariff was most intense. They kept their mills going when the business wasn't paying and shipped all their surplus to the United States for the purpose of swamping the country.

The wholesale markets show but few changes to-day. On the whole business is brisk and settlements are promptly made.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND FEED.

This market is good, with a healthy demand for flour. A good demand for wheat and feed prevails. The new crop of oats and corn is moving freely, notwithstanding, old corn weat up a cents last week, in the West. The supply of local old corn is about exhausted.

Grain—Wheat, sixty pound test, $100 per bush-cl. Corn, per buthel, shelled, $50; car, old 75e; new 60e fromatore. Oats, out of store, western, new crop 160 per bushel; home grown, new crop, 50e are.

Four—Fauny roller mill winter wheat. Cameron, W. Va., attempts to show by cameron, w. Va., attempts to show by tables that the most prosperous period in our history was under the revenue tariil of 1846. He seems not to agree with Abram S. Hewitt, ex-Democratic Congressman, for in December, 1849, in a speech, he says: "Again, of fifteen rail mills only two are in operation, doing partial work, and that because their inland position secured them against foreign competition for the limited orders of neighboring railroads, and when these are executed not a single mill will be in operation in the land." In August, 1850, Hon. Joseph Casey, of Tennsylvania, relates the ruin of the iron trade as follows: "The whole history of the manufacture of iron in Pennsylvania shows that in a period of seventy-five years there have been closed out by the sheriff. Out of this 177 failures 124 of them have occurred since the passage of the tariff of 1846. And out of 300 blast furnaces in full operation when the tariff of 1846 was enacted into a law, fully one-half had stopped several months ago, and fully fifty more are preparing to go out of blast."

In his annual message dated December 8, 1857, he says: "In the midst of unsurpassed plenty in all the productions and in all the clements of national wealth we find our manufactures suspended, our public works retarded, our private enterprises of different kinds abandoned, and thousands of useful laborers thrown out-of employment and reduced to want."

But why prolong the evidence. Enough has been produced to show that the Register correspondent's memory has been playing hum false. Will the writer please explain how a protective tariff wrecked our commercial marine? We do not deprecate the value of our foreign trade; we are proud of it. It is of great value and must be sacredly guarded. But what peculiar sanctity hangs about it which does not attach to our domestic trade? Is not an American consumer as val.

Breadstuff and Provisions.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—The wheat market was rather stronger early, but the closing was tame and much weaker. The news was again bearish, and the feeling in the wheat crowd was consequently not at all buoyent, early trading in the morning being confined to local senjers. Liverpool cables reported a steady market for spot wheat, but futures for red American wheat were lower. Reliable English cable dispatches brought the Intelligence that houses were offering wheat freely, and the big increase on ocean passage would indicate this.

Corn was strong early, became active later, but closed weak and lower.
